Hi, I'm Sam, an AS-level student from Downend School, studying English, history, politics and French. My point when editing this issue was to prove that teenagers are just as engaged with politics as their seniors, and I think the sheer breadth of both ages and views expressed in this issue has thoroughly proved that. Teenagers are often used as scapegoats in the media, and the time has come for us to stand up and say we're not all ASBO-carrying "hoodies"! If I was Prime Minister, my first acts would be to lower the voting age to 16, change the tuition fees system to reduce them as much as possible and, obviously, a total ban on all Twilight-related items!
