

The Apple Child

The Apple Child was a 4 star rating. It was good but too long. It was funny and there was a good band and musicians. The sound effects were good. The puppets looked realistic and the shadow puppet talking was fantastic and clear. The explosions were magnificent and nobody was shy on stage and they all did a fantastic performance. The costumes were great. The projection was good and so were the lights. The make up was effective. Overall we thought it was a good performance and that we would like to watch it again. Our favourite bits were: the explosions, when the ogre came out and when the baby came off the stage and hugged some people. It was funny.
